Even though the trees are only about 25 years old, the area has received extensive attention from the Street Tree Division. Rather than react to those issues in the future, staff wanted to set up a phased approach that allows for greater citizen input, reduced hazards and costs, and minimizes impacts to aesthetics. Recommendation: review and approve the proposed approach to 1) remove and replant the most problematic trees, 2) phase in any future removals and replanting, and 3) cap the total number trees.
