Not so long ago, Chico had a huge budget deficit, out of control spending, and not enough police officers. A hard turnaround managed to get City finances back in order, increased police staffing, and renewed commitment to Chico's stated mission: A safe place to raise a family, an ideal location for business, and a premier place to live.

We have been through the financial crisis, the Dam crisis, the Camp Fire, and the COVID pandemic. City Council has changed leadership and the last two years we have seen an end to the focus on public safety and infrastructure. Bending over backwards for law-ignoring transients, our parks are now overrun and unsafe, and we are facing a massive financial crisis due to the COVID pandemic.

The last few months have placed a heavy burden on our City, businesses, jobs, and families. A Chico resident for over 40 years, I cannot walk away while my hometown is in crisis.

Now, more than ever, we need common sense leadership, a focus on the safety of our community, and a council that will support families, businesses, and an optimistic future.

I will continue to fight for a better, cleaner, safer future for our families.
